

What If It Didn't Have to Be This Hard?

A free 90-minute online session for business owners who are ready for something to change.

If any of these sound familiar — this session is for you.

You started your business with a dream. Somewhere along the way it became a grind. You're tired — tired of being the answer to every question, tired of being the last one to leave, tired of a business that can't seem to run without you.

You're not alone. And it doesn't have to stay this way.

In this free session you'll discover:

- Why 94% of the problems wearing you down aren't people problems — they're systems problems. And systems can be fixed.
- What it actually looks like when a business runs without its owner — and what the first steps toward that look like for yours.
- Why the most successful business owners aren't the ones who work the hardest — and what they do differently.

How it works

One session. 90 minutes. Online via Zoom. This is not a webinar — it's a confidential conversation among peers. This session will not be recorded. What's shared in the room stays in the room. You'll be asked questions, not talked at, and you'll leave with something you can use on Monday morning.

Your host

John Strange has been helping small business owners build businesses that run without them for over 40 years. Early in his career he worked on rocket science — literally. These days he applies the same precision to helping technically brilliant people build businesses that give them their lives back.

No corporate language. No cookie-cutter solutions. Just honest conversation and forty years of hard-won experience.
